

DAVID GOMEZ
DEVELOPMENT SPECIALIST – TRADE AND VALUE CHAINS

David is a senior international development, trade and value chain practitioner with twenty years of experience working in the Caribbean, Africa and the South Pacific. He is Managing Partner at Launchpad Consulting, a respected professional advisory and project management firm established in 2000, and, also Director of the Ramphal Institute, a Commonwealth organization. He has completed numerous assignments for a number of regional and international development partners, is the host of a brand new podcast series titled "SHYPPED: SME value-chain conversations," and writes regularly on Caribbean trade and political affairs. He is currently a PhD candidate in Economic History at University College London and holds post-graduate degrees with distinction in International Development, International Relations and International Trade Law.

Contact:

Website: www.Launchpadbz.com, E-mail: David@launchpadbz.com